AN OUTSTANDING EXAMPLE of co-operation between a private farmer, members of an Alberta Fish and Game Association, the Alberta departments of Lands and Forests and Agriculture, and a municipality occurred recently on the farm of Al Strlichuk, near Redwater. The project involved the planning and planting of a shelterbelt that will not only protect the farmstead but also provide adequate winter cover for pheasant and Hungarian partridge, popular introduced game bird species.

The Redwater project was the first to be so organized in Alberta, but from inquiries being received by the Department of Lands and Forests many more are on the way. The scheme was conceived and organized by John G. Steffox, game biologist, Department of Lands and Forests.

A dozen sportsmen from the Redwater Fish and Game Association gathered at the Strlichuk farm shortly after noon and two and a half hours later, had planted some 2,000 trees and shrubs. Plan for the planting project was laid out by Mr. Steffox; trees and shrubs were provided by the Department of Agriculture from nurseries at Oliver and Ponoka. A tree planting machine was made available by the Municipal District of Sturgeon River.

In following weeks the sportsmen assisted Mr. Strlichuk in erecting a sturdy post and barbed wire fence around the plot, with material supplied by the association. If pheasants are needed to stock the area adjacent to the shelterbelt when it reaches productivity, they will be provided by the Department of Lands and Forests.

The Redwater area is one of many in Alberta in which stocked pheasants have suffered heavy casualties as a result of inadequate protection during winter coupled with a lack of food near the shelter. Mr. Steffox reports that during the severe winter of 1955-56, about 75 to 90 percent of pheasants and roughly 50 percent of Hungarian partridge were lost in central Alberta.

Native cover of poplar and willow provides insufficient shelter for severe winter weather. In many cases where suitable shelter does exist through the winter, it is located too far from a food supply to be of great benefit. Studies show that pheasants will seldom travel more than one-eighth of a mile from cover to procure food.

The new shelterbelt areas are specifically designed in composition and must be located proximate to food supply — the farm yard. They are composed of from 15 to 20 rows of coniferous and deciduous trees. This growth, preferably on the north and west sides of a farmstead, is designed to trap snow on the windward side. Main portion of the large shelterbelt should stay relatively free of winds and drifting snow. Birds may forage from this cover into the farmyard to pick up grain and feed seeds spilled during livestock feeding operations.

This wildlife shelterbelt plan is believed unique in Western Canada. The farmer supplies two and a half to three acres of fallowed land, builds a suitable fence around it with sportsmen supplying the materials and agrees to cultivate the plot for at least three years after planting.

The Fish and Game Branch of the Department of Lands and Forests offers the services of game biologists who plan the shelterbelts and choose suitable locations.

Prepare Streets For Asphalt Oiling

Work started this week on preparing the town streets in the business section for an application of asphalt oil.

This involves scarifying of the present gravel and oil base, application of fresh gravel and leveling. Asphalt oil will be applied under pressure and at a temperature of 150 degrees, the surface then coated with sand and rolled.

The centre part only of each street will be treated in this manner, the curb area for car parking receiving a crushed gravel coat.

The process will be repeated each year and as the asphalt surface is built up, smaller amounts of oil will be required. In addition to giving better and smoother streets in the downtown area, it is expected that the dust problem will be alleviated to a considerable extent.

After the oiling and rolling has been completed, the treated portion of each street will be blocked off from traffic for a 36-hour period.

Over Two Inches at Vulcan

Welcome Weekend Rain Soaks Southern Alberta

The timely, soaking rain over the southern half of the province last weekend was very welcome.

Except for an area in the north-east part of the county, crops were generally in good condition in this area as the result of frequent, scattered showers during the month of June. However, there was a wide variation in the amount of rain received in different districts of the county and the general rain of Friday and Saturday was the first of its kind this year and was very timely.

Reports reaching the Advocate office indicate that the areas north of Vulcan around the Corner Store and south around Champion probably received the greatest amount of rain last week — as much as 2½ inches being reported at these points. Milo, where the rain was badly needed, reports 1.25 inches and at Vulcan up to noon on Monday, the rain gauge showed 1.7 inches, which would probably be about the average over the County of Vulcan area.

Records kept by Alex Hindle, Searle Grain agent at Vulcan, show rainfall this spring at 1.8 inches in April, .52 in May and 3.77 in June.

Monday afternoon of this week good showers were reported in the Ensign and Red Cross areas, accompanied by some soft hail, and at the time of writing Tuesday morning a drizzling rain was falling in Vulcan and it appeared to be fairly general.

Rain Monday night and Tuesday would bring the total rainfall this past week to well over two inches and give practically ideal crop conditions for this time of year.

Electrical Engineer

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Irwin, graduated this spring from the University of British Columbia with the degree of Bachelor of Applied Science in Electrical Engineering.

He received his early schooling at Richmond Hill and Brant schools and took a winter course in radio repair and refrigeration at the Institute of Technology and Art in Calgary before entering the University of British Columbia. He worked in the oil industry during the summer month and is now employed with the British American Oil Company at Calgary.

MAJORVILLE

1½ Inches Rain At Majorville

An electric storm accompanied by heavy winds and dust brought a general rain to the district on Friday afternoon and left an inch and a half of moisture on grain fields, pastures and gardens. The rain was a welcome one although crops don't seem to have suffered too much from the hot dry weather of the past week or so. Early sown wheat and barley is heading in some places, so the recent rain will help with filling. Some outcrop damage is reported but this is only in a few spots. Haying operations are now underway and this is one phase of farming where the dry weather will show as hay crops are reported to be short. A new departure in spraying for weeds was tried out in the district this year when Lewis Greaves had a plane down from Calgary to spray his crop for weeds.

Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Clarke of Calgary were in the district on Monday attending to farm business and visiting with friends. Mr. and Mrs. Clarke have now left by car for a trip across Canada to Montreal where they will sail on the liner Homeric for South Hampton, England. They expect to visit relatives and friends in Scotland and England and will also visit places of interest in Europe. They expect to return to Alberta in early October.

Recent visitors to Calgary have been Lee Francis, Bill Francis, Mrs. Bert Clemmons, Mrs. Larry Umscheid, Jack Sutherland and Mrs. Sutherland.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kiemele were visitors for a few days at Cardston during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Clemmons, Mr. and Mrs. John Umscheid and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Armstrong went to High River on Saturday to attend the horse sale.

Get well wishes are extended to Mrs. George Heather who entered Vulcan hospital on Sunday where she will undergo surgery early in the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Riggs of Morrin were visitors at the weekend at the home of the latter's father, George Kiemele and Mrs. Kiemele.

John Bartsch and Jay left on Saturday for a fishing trip through Windermere.

Keep the frying pan hot was the parting shot from Miles Clemmons as he left on Friday for the foothills, accompanied by Alf Heather. The men folks were guests at the

Boxcar Allocation Hearings

Bracken Commission To Sit Here Friday, July 11

Vulcan is one of the four Alberta points at which hearings of the Bracken Commission of Boxcar Allocation will be held and the date set for the local hearing is Friday, July 11. Other Alberta locations and dates for hearings of the commission are Grande Prairie, July 5; Drumheller, July 7, and Lethbridge, July 9.

About 30 percent of Alberta's wheat is grown in the crop district centred by Vulcan and Lethbridge, which explains why two sittings of the Commission are being held in this part of the province. The meetings have been arranged by the Farmers' Union of Alberta.

It is known that a brief from district 12 of the FUA will be presented at the Vulcan hearing. Farmers and other organizations wishing to make presentations will file their names with the commission and will be called in order of the filing. There will be no cross-examination.

The hearings are open to the general public. The Vulcan hearing will open at 2:00 p.m.

Fred was a Grade XI student at Brant school and chose for his subject, "The Importance of the Middle East Group of Nations in the East-West Struggle." He was sponsored by the Blackie IOOF Lodge.

The scheduled trip will go via Billings, Fargo, Duluth, Sault Ste Marie, Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec city and Hyde Park. The return trip will be via Philadelphia, Gettysburg, Baltimore, Washington D.C., Columbus, Chicago, Madison, St. Paul, to Fargo, Bismark and Billings and back home.

With a full week being spent in New York, Fred will be away for three-and-a-half weeks on this all expense paid tour.

Narrow Escape In Tractor Accident

Louis Shaw, well-known young district farmer, suffered very painful back injuries as well as general shock and bruises, in a tractor accident at his farm Wednesday evening.

Louis, who had been haying with the tractor was on the way home for supper at 6 p.m., when the tractor started to overturn on an incline. Quickly realizing his danger, Louis leaped from the toppling machine, losing much of his clothing while freeing himself. He managed to get to his home, and Mrs. Shaw rushed him to the Vulcan hospital.

After examination and X-rays had been taken he was found to be suffering from injuries to a number of vertebrae of the spine. While he will be confined to the local hospital for several weeks it is hoped his injuries will soon begin to heal.

Vulcan West-Ensign Calf Club Awards

Awards to members of the Vulcan West-Ensign Beef Club at the recent calf show and sale, were incorrect as reported last week and the correct results were as follows. The club championship was won by a calf raised by R. D. Gothard and the reserve championship was won by Patsy Hoffman's calf.

The club showmanship award was won by Allan Toby Clements, with Earl Mote placing second and R. D. Gothard third.

Plan Program For Teachers Convent'n

On Saturday, May 31, a meeting of the executive of the Calgary District Teachers' Convention was held in the Board Room of the Alberta Government Building in Calgary. The executive drew final plans for the Annual Teachers' Convention to be held on Thursday and Friday, Oct. 23 and 24. This year the convention will be held in the Jubilee Auditorium, in Calgary. Teacher, superintendents and the two high school inspectors of Wheatland, Olds, Calgary Rural, Foothills, Drumheller, Three Hills and Macleod School Divisions as well as those of Vulcan County, Mount Rundle and the Calgary Suburban Inspectors all attend this yearly convention.

The high school teachers of the above areas will have opportunities to hear Dr. Salter of the English Department of the Alberta University on both days. On the first day Dr. Salter will address these teachers and on Friday will be in the sectional meeting dealing with essay writing. It is hoped that Mr. Kunellus, high school inspector for the Calgary district can arrange a sectional meeting for mathematic teachers to gain information on the new trends in high school mathematics. Also for high school teachers, A. L. Schrag, superintendent of schools in the Vulcan County, is endeavoring to obtain an expert to give assistance to teachers of French. There will also be a session available for those high school teachers of biology, under the chairmanship of Mr. Oakes of Olds.

In over all charge of the various sessions for high school teachers are Mr. Holman, superintendent of Wheatland Division; Mr. Kunellus, high school inspector; Mr. Johnson, high school inspector; Mr. Bliss, superintendent of Three Hills Division teacher and Inspector Wilson of the Calgary suburban area, and R. McCall of Acme.

Bait fishermen and fly casters alike revel in the good trout fishing to be had in Prince Edward Island's ponds, brooks and streams. Visitors will find that the entire coastline of the National Park in Prince Edward Island is a solid unbroken 25 miles of beach equal to the best in other well-known vacationlands.

Town Expresses Appreciation

Vulcan "Smoke-eaters" Honored At Dinner

The members of the Vulcan Fire Department and their ladies were honored at a dinner in the IOOF Hall on Friday evening, June 20, by the Mayor and Councillors of the Town of Vulcan.

Mayor William Munro presented a "Certificate of Merit" award for 1957 to Fire Chief J. Lundy Findlay. This award was made by the National Fire Protection Association and handled through the Provincial Fire Commissioners' office, Edmonton. The Vulcan Fire Department has won this award for four consecutive years. The award is made in recognition of outstanding activity in fire prevention work.

In his remarks Mayor William Munro said: "The importance of having fire fighting facilities standing by for public protection is often overlooked by the man in the street. It is only when individuals are threatened by fire that the benefits and necessity of having fire fighting equipment at hand comes to the fore in their minds. It is a deplorable situation that the general public does not recognize the importance of your job."

"However the people of Vulcan do recognize the importance of your job, and this evening we pay tribute to a group of public spirited citizens who appear from all directions as if by magic, when they are needed."

"During the recent serious fire in town we received a lesson in co-operation. At such a time each man becomes a cog in the machine and each man must do his job, or the whole machine becomes useless. That three or four adjoining buildings did not burn on Sunday evening is a tribute to the quick thinking and speedy action of you gentlemen."

Mayor Munro thanked the firemen's wives for their co-operation and paid tribute to the police force who so capably handle traffic and crowds at a fire.

In accepting the merit award on behalf of the members of the Vulcan Fire Department, Fire Chief J. Lundy Findlay thanked the mayor and councillors for the fine co-operation which has always existed between the Town Council and the Fire Department and reviewed briefly fire department activities during the past twelve years. He assured the Council that the Fire Department members are very much aware that the price of efficiency is constant practice.

He also pointed out that the efficiency award was in most part an award in connection with fire prevention work and stressed that fire prevention is the duty of every citizen and must be carried on 365 days a year.

He thanked the firemen's wives for their co-operation in getting the firemen to practices and fire and for coffee and lunches served during cold weather fire fighting.

Mr. Findlay closed by putting in an urgent appeal for a new fire hall so that more adequate facilities could be available and present equipment utilized to greater advantage. He quoted several of the firemen in saying that if they could get the mayor and councillors to garage the trucks we would soon have a new fire hall in which to hang the Efficiency Award.

Deputy Chief Arthur Scott, as main speaker of the evening, very capably gave a summary of the training provided at the recent first annual three-day Fire Chiefs' College in Calgary, which he had attended. This college was nearly all practical demonstrations and lectures designed as training for town volunteer fire brigades. The first of its kind in Alberta, it proved highly successful and is to be repeated again next year in Calgary at which time it is hoped to have two or three members of the local fire department in attendance. He expressed the opinion that Vulcan's equipment compared favorably with other towns but that much valuable information was obtained that would enable the local firemen to use their equipment to greater advantage. Deputy Chief Scott will be passing on the technical training he received to the members of the Vulcan Fire Department in subsequent training periods.

The gathering was favored with vocal solos by Bill Shields and Arthur Jones, both of whom were accompanied by Mrs. W. W. Almond at the piano.

Charles Northcott thanked the fire department members for a good job well done and also thanked all those who participated in the work bee which prepared the Betty Ann building for reconstruction and all those who helped by drying clothes and in other ways.

The sumptuous banquet was ably catered by the Evangelical United Brethren town Church Ladies Group.

The Gas Situation

The matter of securing natural gas service this year for Vulcan, Champion and Carmangay is still very much of a live issue and the present picture is this:

(1) The Canadian Western Natural Gas Co. Ltd. and Central Gas Utilities (Vulcan) Ltd., have not yet arrived at a price satisfactory to both companies for the distribution system plant at Vulcan. The large propane tank and the air-mix plant here are of no particular use in natural gas operations and yet represent a considerable investment by Central Gas. The latest offer by the natural gas company has been rejected by Central Gas, but it is felt that a compromise will soon be worked out, satisfactory to both companies.

(2) Trans-Canada Pipeline has not yet set the price which will have to be paid by Canadian Western Natural Gas Company for the gas needed to serve Carmangay, Champion and Vulcan. The price to be charged consumers will have to be included in the by-law giving the gas company a franchise and will have to be approved by the Board of Public Utilities Commissioners.

The town is in close contact with the gas company on these matters and further developments are expected in the near future.

Politics and Irrigation

The farmers in the Enchant, Travers and Lomond areas, south of Brooks, are now in the $10 million dollars Bow River Irrigation District, and it would appear that most of them wish they were out of it.

The construction work was paid for in government funds but the farmers are expected to pay the cost of operation and they are frightened at the prospect.

The original plan provided for the irrigation of 70,000 acres but this has been cut in half. But the farmers say that much of the remaining 35,000 acres should not be classified as irrigated land. P. M. Saunderson, manager, says that if any cut is made the balance of the land will have to carry the operational cost, which will create a heavy per acre charge. That is not so good!

The trouble with irrigation development is that politics is inextricably interwoven with the various schemes and not enough attention is paid to practical economics.

Now we have the South Saskatchewan project about to be launched as part payment for the election of Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his party. The cost is estimated at $180 million but we venture to predict that $250 million will be the final figure. The original estimate of the cost of the St. Mary River project was around $15 million and the ultimate figure in excess of $40 million.

A total of 450,000 acres will be irrigated under the South Saskatchewan project. Even at a cost of $180 million that works out at $400 an acre. But only 180,000 acres of the total can be irrigated by gravity flow and the balance will require pumping which will greatly increase the cost.

At $400 an acre for the irrigation the cost over a quarter section would be $64,000. What can be grown on a 160 acre farm to pay the cost of operation with such a capital charge?

The farmers in the province of Saskatchewan whose lands will come under the South Saskatchewan Irrigation project had better send a delegation to interview the farmers in the Enchant, Travers and Lomond district in Alberta before signing up for irrigation.

THE MERE LIVING

Last night I began to read a book which did not seem to promise much excitement. It was called "The Mere Living," written by Hazel McDonald Parkinson, and sub-titled "A Biography of the Hartney District." Hartney is a small Manitoba town and I feared the story might be dull. Its opening chapter was full of sentences such as, "Our bedroom was on the north side and overlooked the sloping roof of the back shed. In the springtime we climbed out the window and daintily sat upon the roof, which became, in turn, a buggy in which we drove with our dolls to town for supplies, a gypsy caravan when we had been reading a gypsy tale, or after we had travelled by train to Souris or Elgin, a railway coach in which we journeyed with all our possessions and our doll family." Obviously, The Mere Living was no Peyton Place! And yet I found myself reading on.

What constitutes the charm of this book? Now, having reached Chapter 9, I think I know. It sets down in print, without any pretence, life almost precisely as it has been lived in the Hartney district for a couple of generations. It does not seek drama, or tragedy, or any of the effects commonly supposed to make best sellers out of books. But the reader who is raised in just such a district unaccountably feels a lump in his throat or a pounding in his heart at certain passages—perhaps because he senses much of what goes on behind the serenity of placid community life.

Ox-travel, livery stables, blacksmith shops—all are there, recounted simply. "He arrived late in 1891, and lived with the Parsons family while he built a little shop south of the livery stable and secured from Fred Spencer a small shack which he moved onto East Railway Street, three doors south of Dr. Woodhull's cottage, for a temporary home. Mrs. Batty and their two children, John and Eva, joined him in 1892." Do you see what I mean? If you're a small-town boy, somewhere in those lines there's a nostalgic emotion sure to hit you.

What The Mere Living accomplishes, really, is to capture the history of the older families while it is still available. I wish more writers would do the same thing for their communities. I wish more men and women would start putting down on paper (whether they are professional writers or not) the simple history of their generation. It beats Peyton Place for good reading, in my opinion. How's about it, old-timers? Get those pencils flying! Let the youth of this generation know how you struggled for things they now take for granted, or expect someone to provide for them free. It is a story that needs telling.

New Hullless Oat Variety

Vicar a new hullless oat variety is being released for distribution this year. It was developed as a result of a single-plant selection made from Garry, by George MacVicar of Portage la Prairie. The Cereal Breeding Laboratory at Winnipeg did the final work of selection, and testing before the variety was released.

Hullless oats yield approximately 25% less than hulled varieties because of the absence of hulls, but produce heavier bushel weights. To date tests have indicated that Vicar is lower yielding in Alberta than the variety Brighton. However in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, Vicar is the highest yielding hullless variety.

Hullless oats are used mainly as a feed for young pigs and poultry, since they contain less fibre which has little nutritional value for these classes of livestock. Excess fibre fed to weanling pigs often acts as an irritant, and for poultry it forms an indigestible bulk that limits the intake of more digestible nutrients required for growth and production.

There are a number of problems associated with growing hullless oats. As they have a tendency to heat in storage, they must be harvested after being well ripened, and stored only when well dried. Millers do not like hullless oats as they lack a protective hull and readily collect dust when they are threshed. Since hullless oats tend to produce some hulled plants, it is necessary for seed growers to remove the hulled kernels before seeding. However since hullless oats tend to produce some hulled plants, it is necessary for seed growers to remove the hulled kernels before seeding. However since hullless oats have a high energy producing value and a specialized use, there are always a few who are interested in growing them.

Anyone wishing to obtain some Vicar seed should write to the Canada Department of Agriculture, Cereal Seeds, 201 Norlyn Bldg., 309 Hargrave St., Winnipeg 2, and ask for an official order form. All grades of registered quality are selling for 15c a pound, while the Certified grades are selling for 10c a pound. The department is reserving the right to limit the quantity to any one purchaser at 100 pounds.

Prince Edward Island's coastline is dotted with quaint little fishing villages which provide a special charm to the visitor from inland cities.

Grow, Harvest, and Protect say Forester Farmers Planning For Future

Research too Plays Big Role in Modern Forest Development

Montreal — Fifty years or more for a single crop. That's how long it takes for most trees to grow from seedlings to maturity.

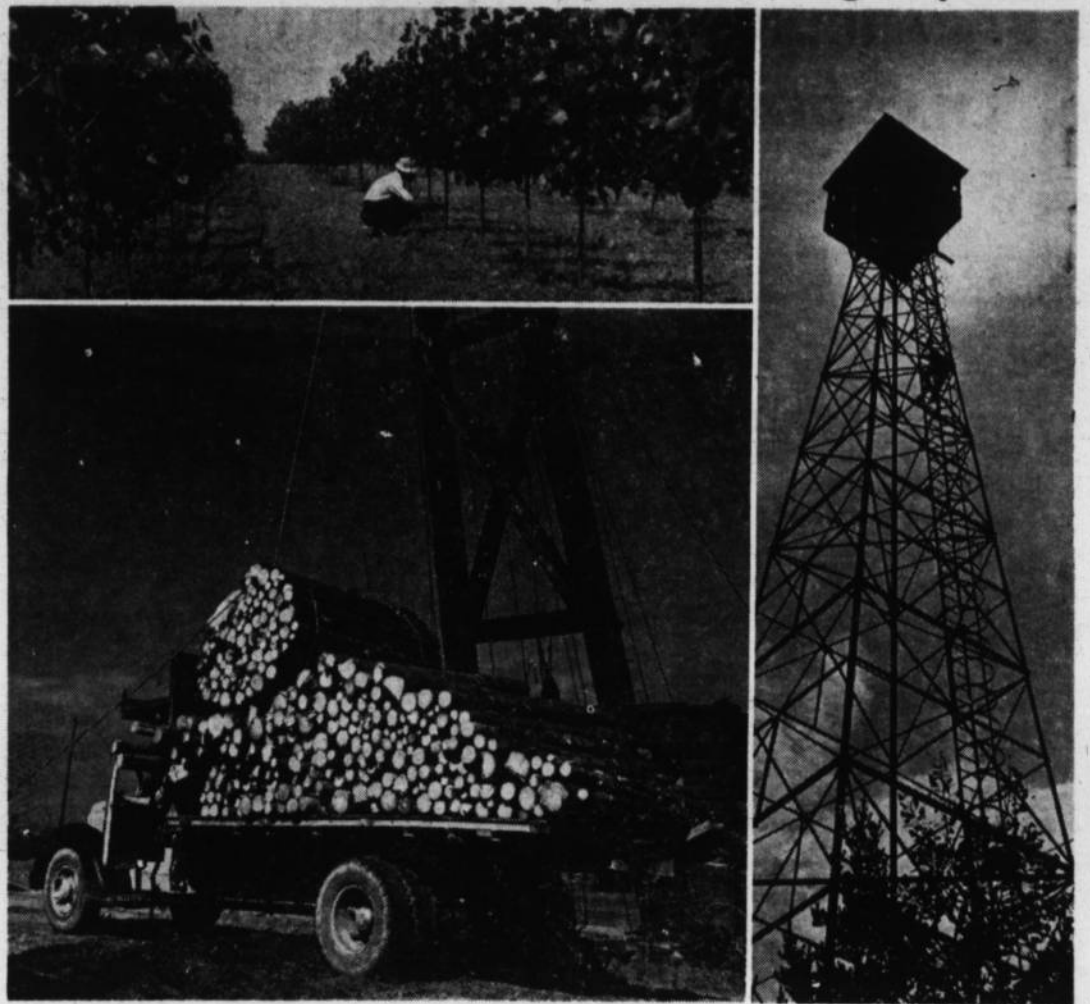

During their long growing period, trees, just like a farm crop, must be tended and protected. When the crop is mature it must be harvested. If it is not, the trees will be wasted as they rot in the forest or fall prey to insects, wind storms, and disease.

These are the facts of forest management about which professional foresters and woods operators talked at the 40th annual meeting of the Woodlands Section of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, held recently in Montreal.

The Woodlands Section of C.P.P.A. plays an active role in the management and protection of the forests. Working committees of the Section participate in research projects, investigate new protection techniques, and help design new logging equipment.

Forest management, as it was discussed at the meeting, is more than a conservation and protection program. It is creative. It includes and makes use of advanced scientific research. It provides the continuing and overlapping cycles of natural re-seeding, growing, and harvesting that will bring forth sustained annual crops to enrich Canadians and the nation.

Commenting on the future of Canada's forest resources in his announcement of the Montreal conference, W. A. E. Pepler, manager of the Section, said, "Over the next twenty-five years Canada will have the exciting opportunity of doubling its output of pulp and paper and, at the same time, increasing by some 40 per cent its output of other forest products. Most of this output will earn money for Canada through sales abroad."

A forest researcher, (upper left), examines hybrid poplars at a commercial forest plantation on Manitoulin Island in Ontario's Lake Huron. These trees were planted as cuttings in 1955. By the following mid-summer, when this photo was taken, they were more than six feet tall. Careful breeding produced these amazingly rapid-growing trees which may be ready to harvest in ten years. (Lower Left), Eight foot pulpwood logs are loaded for delivery to a pulp and paper mill. They are part of the annual harvest from Canada's woodlands. (Right), a fire tower, symbol of forest protection, stands up against a clear summer sky. Forestry protection also includes insect and disease control.

"In terms of wood volume," Mr. Pepler continued, "the nation's forest resources are sufficient to sustain such an output. But such extensive forest development will naturally create some problems for forestry officials and woods operators," he said.

"That is why the Woodlands Section, and its members throughout the pulp and paper industry, continually strive to improve all aspects of their forest management and harvesting operations. Our concern is for the future as well as for immediate harvests."

Burns hobby of souvenir teaspoons was very interesting as was a collection of sea shells shown by David Baldwin.

Plans were made for the mission picnic to be held this year at Park Lake on July 13, starting at 2 o'clock, with supper at 5 o'clock and open air service in the evening.

Services for July at the church will be on July 20 and 27, in the evening. A short history of the Lambeth Conference was given by the Rev. R. Johnson and he also had a question-and-answer period. There will be no guild meeting in July; the next one will be on Aug. 28. Lunch was served on the lawn by the hostess by Mrs. Krasman and Mrs. McLean.

C.W.L. Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the C.W.L. was held at the home of Rosella Hubka with nine members, two visitors and Father Campbell present. The league prayer was recited. The president welcomed the two visitors, Mrs.

Hensing and Miss Connie Billing-ton to the meeting.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Final plans were made for the church picnic on July 2. It was decided to have the annual lawn tea and bake sale on Tuesday afternoon, July 22, at the home of Mrs. Szekely.

Mrs. Buelah Hubka, delegate to the C.W.L. convention in Calgary, gave her report. It was brought to the attention of the meeting that the girls are anxious to get Brownies and Guides started in the district. Anyone who would be willing to help, please contact Mrs. Buelah Hubka.

Faather Campbell answered questions in the question box which proved to be very interesting. Mrs. Hensing offered to make a rug for the group.

The raffle was won by Mrs. Hensing.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Marion West on July 30. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

GOOD-BYE TO ALL THAT!

ALWAYS IN SEASON

The common cold is always with us, no matter what the season, and Spring is no exception, especially since there is a tendency to throw off heavier clothing and to discard protective footwear before warm weather really arrives. This all too common disease is a main cause of absenteeism at work and school but it can often be avoided by commonsense care in diet, exercise, rest, and by keeping away from other people who are sneezing and coughing.

A four-leaf clover is considered lucky because its four leaves form a cross.

District News

MOSSLEIGH

Friday morning was fair and mild and everybody got ready and went to Mossleigh Sports Day. At 1 p.m. the Arrowwood ladies and the Mossleigh girls started the ball games. The girls played soft ball and Mossleigh won the game by a wide margin. This was followed by a hard ball game between Carlsland High School and Mossleigh High School, but this game came to an end early due to high winds, dust and a very welcome rain fall. The rain brought the sports day to an end before the children's races and other ball games could be run off. The draw for the electric fryer was not made.

The Mossleigh ladies have finished their canvas of the district for the TB X-ray and hope they haven't missed anyone. If they have please don't hesitate to report to any WA member. No exact date has been set yet as to the X-rays so please watch for former columns.

It was hot and very dry all last week and pastures and hay lands were beginning to suffer for the need of rain, the grain crops were beginning to show sign too, but two inches of rain fell over the weekend, bringing relief from the drought.

adv. A.C.F. God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life. — John 3:16

Could we with ink the ocean fill,
Were every blade of grass a quill,
Were the world of parchment made,
And every man a scribe by trade,
To write the love
Of God above
Would drain that ocean dry;
Nor would the scroll
Contain the whole,
Though stretched from sky to sky!
